It can be seen that the total harmonic value of the atomic numbers of the combined elements is 648. The square root of this number is 25.45584412, the harmonic of which is found in the polar sections of the world grid. Three new elements just recently discovered have atomic numbers of 116, 124 and 126. Do the scientists know something, and are they now looking for numbers 108 and 144. PHI = 799
